10 year old Abigail Courtemanche was diagnosed with Myelodysplastic Syndrome (MDS), at the young age of 7. MDS is a life threatening blood disorder marked by the bone marrow's failure to produce healthy blood cells. She had her first chemotherapy treatment and bone marrow transplant in 2008. A year and a half later her disease returned and she had to have another transplant. Both times her little brother was the willing donor. Only 4 months after her second treatment, her disease returned again and she is now currently on the waitlist for another bone marrow transplant, this time from a non-relative donor. Although hopeful, Abby still has a long road ahead of her. When the Make a Wish foundation approached her in 2008, her first wish was to not be sick anymore. Her second wish was to take the Disneyland cruise.

Spending the past three years going back and forth to San Francisco has been not only taxing on her and her family, but also her family's 20 year old car. Their goal through your charitable donation would be to purchase a gently used car to help get the family to and from doctor appointments, treatments and ultimately to the Disney cruise.

Anything you can do to help Abby and her family would be greatly appreciated!
